1. No merchant vessels have called at Ustka (Stolpmuende) harbor for cargo or unloading during the summer and latter part of 1954 to 29 November 1954. On some isolated occasions, some commercial vessels have sought shelter in the harbor.
2. The harbor is used as a base for 60-70 fishing cutters belonging to a state fishing enterprise which has its own installations such as a cold-storage warehouse, a small shipyard for the repair and construction of cutters, and a warehouse for the storage of fishing equipment.
3. There is no work in progress in the harbor with the exception of repair work on the bridge over the river. The coal supply, which is generally fairly large; consisted of only 200 tons at the end of November. 25X1
4. From time to time the harbor is visited by coastal patrol vessels [redacted] of the Polish Navy. These vessels are rebuilt trawlers and are used as checking ships for the fishing catch. 25X1
